Dear Mr. Saunders:

There is attached the Department's report for Fiscal Year 1960 of estimated foreign intelligence costs.

The costs for "Foreign Service and Attache Reporting" represent a pro rata allocation of Foreign Service costs to the intelligence activity, determined by applying the ratio of the costs of the Intelligence Bureau to other program or substantive activities of the Department to the total costs of all Political and Economic sections in the Foreign Service posts. In addition, the pro rata costs of Departmental administrative overhead (central administrative services) were allocated to the estimate for foreign intelligence costs.

Sincerely yours,

Donald B. McCue
Director, Executive Staff
Bureau of Intelligence and Research
